

Blue and Black? White and Gold?

It Goes Viral...

In recent news reports, there has been a special dress that has emerged “out of the blue” due to the immense controversy it has devised. Some people say the dress is Blue and Black, however, some people say the dress is White and Gold. What do you think; is it an illusion or are people lying to cause controversy?

Popular social media such as: Instagram, Facebook and Twitter have been plagued with images of the dress, and comments are being trafficked in. This signifies how the media can turn something minute into one of the most talked about pictures on the planet. The dress has plummeted through the charts and into everyone’s minds. How can this be? Well this has happened because the makers of the dress all struggled to recognise the colour of the dress and amazingly it has spread all over the continent!

Forest Gate News Team